PREFACE

Mr
J. UDAY BHASKAR
(M.Com)SICA GOLD MEDAL
Chairman

I believe that teaching is not speaking. It is making. I always treat teaching not as a profession but a mission. Discipline is never a part of education rather education a part of discipline for, with discipline, one can touch the peaks of success even without education. We can see many such great people.. Education is a progressive discovery of one's own ignorance. By lighting the lamp of inner spark and skills of children, we can dispel or drive away the darkness of ignorance.

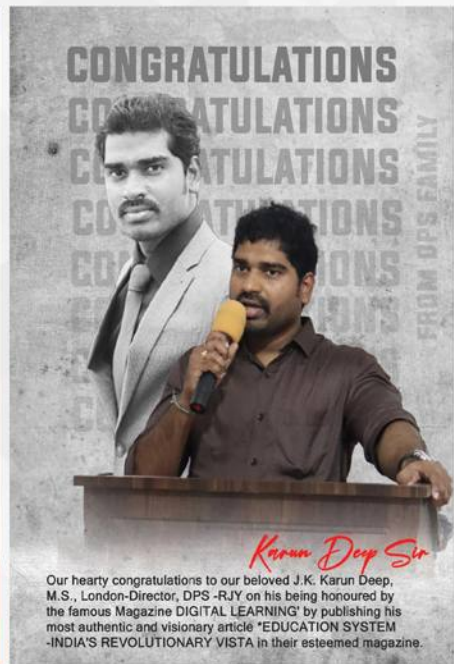

Mr
CHALUMURU SRINIVAS
Vice Chairman

Mr. Chalumuru Srinivas, the Director, believes in striving for excellence in everything. CBSE pattern follows a compact structure which provides basic and complete knowledge for a child to move forward in terms of education. CBSE emphasises on CERT curriculum which is not based on the rote learning and provides a competitive edge at the national level after schooling.

EDUCATION SYSTEM - INDIA'S REVOLUTIONARY VISTA

VISION OF FUTURE EDUCATION FOR VISIONARY

Mr.J.K. KARUN DEEP M.S. London Director

Modern education demands modern methods of teaching and learning. India's education system is in need of a complete overhaul. The National Education Policy 2020 is the first policy of the 21st century.

The Indian school system is one of the largest providers of education to over 250 million students. Modern education is the contemporary way of educating the students in schools and learning institutions of the 21st century. The new education demands to move away from traditional mainstream subjects such as medical, non-medical, commerce, humanities, and focus more on life skills, critical & analytical thinking, and logical reasoning. The new-age education system includes using the latest technology like smartphones, mobile applications, audio and video platforms, podcasts, and e-books to educate the learners while engaging with great interest. Now, things work in a fast-paced mode where results are expected within seconds. Therefore, the education systems across the world must transform according to the evolution in demand of thinkers and creators.

HELPING HAND

Once upon a time, there were two friends called Harsh and Arush. One day, both of them decided to go to beach to have fun. On their way, Harsh and Arush's car stopped at the traffic signal. While waiting Harsh saw an old woman who was unable to cross the road. He felt pity and wanted to help her. So he came out of the car.

Then, his friend Arush stopped him and asked, "Where are you going?", to which Harsh replied, "I am going to help the old woman cross the road. Arush told him to leave it but Harsh went and helped the old woman. Months later, Harsh and Arush lost their money on some investments. They were very sad. Next day, Harsh's house roof broke and some gold coins fell out from it. Harsh was overjoyed and he thanked god for the miracle. On the other hand, Arush was still unhappy and sad.

The Boy and Pretty Birds

Once upon a time, there was a boy named Rahul. Rahul always woke up early and would go upstairs to brush his teeth. One fine morning, he saw pretty birds and he thought of keeping them in the cage. So he went to his mother and said that, he wanted to cage those pretty birds from their garden.

The mother said no because, it is not a right thing to do. We must love and protect the birds and animals. We should let them live peacefully and let them enjoy their life as they want.

Further, mother asked Rahul to go and keep some food for the birds up in the terrace, to which he happily agreed and understood what his mother said.

HAPPY GRADUATION

As another year comes to its close, students are left with a great feeling of pride at having made it through the school year in one piece, outlined with a slight tinge of melancholy for the times that have gone by. Being the second full school year since the end of the COVID-19 Pandemic, the feeling of having to pick up from where we left off was hard to grow accustomed to.

Despite this, the students of DPSR demonstrated their grit and endurance in the face of adversity and managed to make this school year as fulfilling as possible. With enthralling school events, spellbinding poetry, creative writing, and art alike, creativity and childlike wonder have been brought to the pages of this year's edition of the BLOOM Magazine. Here at DPSR, students learn to celebrate diversity and understand its importance in a rapidly changing world. As the years pass by and our student community grows larger and larger, the bonds that students from vastly differing cultural backgrounds form with one another persevere with ever-growing engagement. This year's magazine, cantered around these themes of interconnectedness and the appreciation of cultural differences, represents the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusivity that our students and teachers have fostered. This year's magazine was certainly a great task to accomplish, and it would certainly not be possible without the guidance and support of the respective authorities, who were our compasses in times of need, making sure we knew every aspect of the tasks that were ahead of us, supporting us in our work, and providing us with moral support throughout the editing process. Truly, the dedication of our team to designing and editing BLOOM is clear on every page of this magazine.

We would like to extend our utmost gratitude to all of our teachers, parents, and students, whose guidance and contributions to this year's magazine ranging from astonishing photography, engaging articles, and elevating short stories made our magazine what it is today.

Finally, we would like to thank you, the reader, for supporting this year's magazine, and we wish you happy reading as you begin your journey across BLOOM 2023-2024.
